Thursday, Sept. 27, 1906

We want to congratulate Gen. R. R. Hemphill, of the Abbeville Medium, on his editorial of last week, "Our Peace of Mind," which we republish in another column. Would that we all were less hasty to say and write the unkind word. Let us say all the good we can about everybody and do all the good we are capable of, as we go along through life.

Walterboro's town council has passed an ordinance putting a license system on that town, and the income from this source will be used to install a system of waterworks. This is what Bamberg ought to do. The business men of the town would save enough in insurance premiums to pay the license tax three or four times.

The Orangeburg Times and Democrat says that a number of dispensaryites in that city voted for Mr. Ansel for governor on account of his personality. In the city of Bamberg a number of anti-dispensaryites voted for Mr. Manning because of his personality. So there you are. The question of the vote for these gentlemen being a test of dispensary sentiment is not settled yet, but still we notice that most of the press are of the opinion that the election of Ansel meant a repudiation of the dispensary.

A number of candidates for the legislature in the various counties during the course of their campaigns stated that they were opposed to bucket shops or "cotton exchanges" where people gamble in cotton futures. Now, will the legislature pass a law putting these institutions in charge of the State and running them—the profits to go to the schools? This is what was done when the dispensary law was enacted. The people voted for prohibition, yet the State put a lot of private citizens out of business and went to selling whiskey under a system of State management. Let us hope that such will not be the case, but that bucket shops will be abolished in South Carolina.

Saturday, the 29th instant, has been set as a work day for the orphanages of this State, and they ask that special efforts be made on this day to provide for the fatherless and motherless little ones in their care. Next Saturday is the day on which you are asked to specially remember these needy children. Send to the orphanage of your choice whatever contribution you desire to make. There are three of these institutions in this State, all doing a grand and noble work. There is the Thornwell Orphanage at Clinton, the Connie Maxwell Orphanage at Greenwood, and the Epworth Orphanage at Columbia. Remember to send one or all of them some gift of money, clothing or provisions next Saturday.

We people of the South are paying a terrible price for negro labor. The work of a million negroes for a million years will not repay for the fate of one of their white victims. It is high time the men of the South were seriously considering some method of preventing these assaults by negroes on white women. Lynchings and hangings do no good, for the crime seems to be on the increase, and no man knows when his own home will be attacked. It is liable to happen to any of us. We boast of protecting our women when we lynch a negro, and yet truth compels the statement that we are doing practically nothing. The thing to do is to prevent these crimes. That's the way to protect our women. Again we repeat, what a fearful price we are paying for negro labor!

Negro Attacks Engineer.

CHARLESTON, September 20.—Engineer J. L. Leonard of the Southern railway is under treatment for an injured ear, resulting from an attack made upon him by Daniel Goodwin, a former engineer of the road, at Kingville yesterday. The train was about to pull out of the station, when the negro boarded the cab and announced that he was going to ride to Columbia. Leonard ordered him off the engine and upon the negro's refusal to obey, the engineer proceeded to put him off. The negro seized a monkey wrench and made a ferocious attack upon the engineer and Leonard narrowly escaped being brained by quickly slipping from his seat. Goodwin had firmly braced himself and in the fight he caught Leonard's ear in his mouth and proceeded to chew the man's ear, terribly lacerating the member. The negro was finally put off the engine and he made his escape in the woods nearby. Engineer Leonard carried his train on to Columbia and there gave his ear temporary attention and upon his return to Charleston he again went under the care of a physician. Goodwin will probably be arrested and vigorously prosecuted by the Southern railway.

Towns and the Man.
Traveler's tales which often add charm to the conversation of an agreeable person frequently render a bore more tiresome than ever, a fact that was amusingly illustrated by an occurrence in a Baltimore clubhouse not long ago.

"There I stood, gentlemen," the long-winded narrator was saying, after droning on for an hour with reference to his trip to Switzerland—"there I stood, with the abyss yawning in front of me."
"Pardon me," hastily interjected one of the unfortunate men who had been obliged to listen to the story, "but was that abyss yawning before you got there?"

It Came Back.

Stories of the "bad of the sea," as the French have it, are recalled by the reply of an explorer to a questioner. He had been in the Philippines, and had spent some time with the natives whose chief article of diet is dog.

"Did you taste any puppy stew while you were away?"
"Yes, twice. Once going down and once coming up."

With The
Cow's Compliments

Every housewife knows that a meal may be perfect in every particular and appointment until it comes to the butter--and then, if that's just the least bit "off color," the whole meal is a hopeless failure.

Cheese, too, is no small factor in the making or marring of a meal. Not only a tasty "smack," but a lot of genuine nourishment in a piece of pure cheese.

We have the finest butter and the clearest, choicest brands of cheese a careful market affords. Won't you order some and see?
